

Announcing a special opportunity to register for the 2017 Futures Conference to be held September 25 – 26, 2017 at the Borgata Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City

What does the future of libraries look like? How will libraries be impacted by technology? How will they communicate and what tools will be available to help libraries adapt in order to best suit their customers' needs?

Join librarians from across the country in beginning a discussion on how libraries need to change in order to thrive in the next decade. We imagine a morphing of imagination, inspiration, and information that will transform the way libraries look at the future. Hear speakers share their vision, engage in small group discussions and be a part of a conference where EVERYONE walks away with a plan to navigate the future through newly envisioned possibilities.

Sessions will explore:

- Hacking and privacy in the age of “Big Brother” and “Big Data”.
- The future of technology, science, innovation and media.
- A forward look at economic, demographic, and real estate studies that will impact the future.
- The role of architecture in the future, and innovative solutions to architectural design challenges.
- A look at the convergence of information and society, and how this is driving and accelerating disruptive change.
- Understanding the drivers behind how business and technology changes and how to shape strategies for leveraging these changes.
- The future of social media, branding, and strategic communications.
- Additionally, attendees will participate in hands-on training in forecasting the future, as well as an Oculus Rift VR technology demo!
